

Conscious Consentience Defined

--© 2006 J.Hamilton www.visionarieslab.com

Most are aware of the Law of Attraction which says that what we focus on expands. Law of Attraction might be further defined as what we put our attention to we attract into our lives. Even more refined, Law of Attraction says that by a combination of conscious output, i.e., intentional focus combined with "underlying quality of intent," we create reality in alignment with our potential.

Conscious and unconscious consentience is similar, but generally applied to mass mind reality creation. The term was created during the writing of Visionaries Thrive In All Times to denote a phenomenon by which humanity puts its attention to an event and by the intentional or inadvertent attention to that event, we empower and contribute to that event. And while an unconscious populace may look on in horror at a catastrophic situation, through the Law of Attraction, we inadvertently empower that situation.

By the focus of thousands or millions of nervous systems on an event, by our attention to the subject matter, we contribute to it. By our inadvertent focus on something dysfunctional or tragic, we bring life to it. This is unconscious consentience. Governments and marketing agencies harness this all the time. It is called manipulating mass mind consensus for their own use. What would be the success of a parade, football game or war without the contribution of the audience?

Conscious consentience is visionary mode. Conscious consentience is a subtle use of Law of Attraction and can become the source for collective reality creation. Conscious consentience says that by humanity consciously throwing its weight behind an ideal or value, we contribute to the unfolding of that ideal or value. Conscious consentience (a two-part formula) says that as we perceive what is going on with unconditional love, we hold a vision for what we wish to see – and thus become far more useful to the whole.

This is important. What we focus on expands. If you wish to better understand Law of Attraction, there is a free chapter download at www.visionarieslab.com/VTAT3.htm that goes into this in great detail. What we need to understand is that we have a huge influence through our gaze alone. Based on our ignorance of fundamental concepts we inadvertently contribute to the frightful and dangerous events that go on upon the planet. And, while we have a huge repository of power and influence, most of us simply observe and inadvertently consent.

For example: Hurricane Katrina and New Orleans. There was a horror and anguish brought about by a storm devastating a substantial American city. And while there are "cheap thrills" watching the power of the storm, or even "concern" for the welfare of the inhabitants, what do we each really contribute to this event? We send money, maybe prayers and what else? We rely on the government! Now, there's some dysfunctional thinking and a disregard for our conscious connection with the cosmos! What might be more effective?

How about loving the storm as soon as we hear about it? How about blessing the storm with unconditional love as it comes ashore? How about loving the people in their perceived dire circumstances? How about practicing Unconditional Love for the circumstances that we see anywhere on the planet? It is well within our capacity to love the circumstance before us, all the while holding a vision for what we wish to see. Apply this to mass mind reality creation and we have a solution for anything. Ever heard the expression, "One connected to Source is more powerful than one million who are not"? There is an exponential multiplier available that can readily move mountains.

Imagine realizing that all is in order and that by our perception we can make the world a better place. An empowered sentient being has it within his/her gaze to view a happening, frame it with Unconditional Love and hold a vision for what we really wish to see. And, while it might take a bit of effort to develop the habit and require some thought as to how we may wish it to turn out, what else do living nervous systems connected with the cosmos have to do with their time?

This is a continuation from the previous article titled "America's Most Important Natural Resource." J.Hamilton is the author of Visionaries Thrive In All Times and lives in Sedona, Arizona. He can be reached at jhamilton@visionarieslab.com or www.visionarieslab.com